Mortgage advice firm Largemortgageloans.com (<http://Largemortgageloans.com>) (LML) has expanded its adviser team with three appointments.

The firm, which primarily deals with high net worth individuals, is currently on a recruitment drive to meet growing demand for its services.

LML said it has seen an increase in demand for larger mortgages, including both commercial deals and residential loans for luxury properties.

This includes the recent appointment of Reshad Rajabally into the newly-created role of compliance manager (<https://www.mortgagesolutions.co.uk/news/2022/07/18/largemortgageloans-com-appoints-compliance-manager-in-capital-expansion/>).

The latest adviser appointments include Paul O'Neill who joins from John Charcol where he was a mortgage sales team manager.

There he ran a team of seven mortgage advisers and one protection adviser. He has nearly 10 years' experience as a mortgage and protection adviser, through previous employment at Barclays, Santander and Royal Bank of Scotland as well as within the intermediary sector.

Naima Mirza has joined LML from Habito, where she was a mortgage adviser for six months. She also has previous experience as a mortgage consultant at Knight Frank, where she worked for over a year, and at Dynamo where she was employed for more than four years.

The third adviser joining the LML team is Chris Young, who previously worked at Trussle for almost a year as mortgage team manager. There he oversaw a team of 16 advisers and associates. Prior to that, he worked at Simply Life and Mortgages for more than two years as a senior mortgage consultant, and before that was at Dynamo for four years as a mortgage manager.

He has over 25 years of experience in financial planning and mortgage advice.

More appointments are set to be announced in the coming months.

Paul Welch, founder and CEO of Largemortgageloans.com (<http://Largemortgageloans.com>), said: “We have exciting plans in the pipeline for the business which focus on updates to our systems and technology to ensure an even smoother experience for our clients.

“But you can’t underestimate the importance of excellent face-to-face customer service, something that Naima, Chris and Paul all excel at. Their ambition to grow and develop professionally coupled with their desire to always deliver the very highest levels of service for clients, means that they will be the perfect addition to our broker team.”
